A color palette is a combination of colors used by UI designers when designing an interface.